Sammy and Sally

One of the biggest hits of the trip were Sammy and Sally, our puppets. For a couple of years we have wanted to bring our puppets with us on a mission trip. Logistical problems like packing a stage for the puppets and language barriers had always prevented us from doing this.

This trip, we brought our two main puppets, Sammy and Sally. We had sent the scripts to a friend who interpreted for us in El Salvador to be translated into Spanish. Then another friend from church recorded the scripts for us. The recording was edited and the voices were changed into children's voices. We would play the recording and the puppets would “speak” in Spanish. To eliminate the stage problem, we put legs on the puppets so they could sit in our laps ventriloquist style.

Tuesday we had about 50 children listen to the puppets and the gospel presentation. We had about 24 kids indicate they prayed to accept Jesus. Wednesday we had about 55 children and 10 adults who listened to Sammy and Sally talk about God's love and about 20 indicated they had prayed to accept Jesus. Sally and Sammy are getting excited about going to Brazil, though they did not like being stuffed into a small backpack and they are requesting a window seat on the plane.
